Cornucopia*

As a new day begins, a New Horizon appears in front of us. Many decisions will have to be made and with that many changes will come and go. The college community has faced many New Horizons throughout the year beginning with the total change over in the Office of Student Life. Dr. Betsy Arrison was named the new Dean of Students. Through this office, New Horizons appeared in campus life. We went from having 7 Resident Directors to having 3 Area Coordinators who oversee a few residence halls each. The college's procedure on resident students choosing housing has changed. Before, the students were able to choose any residence hall in which they wanted to live. However, with the new system, the residence halls of Samuel, Ullman, Wolfshon, and 2nd floor of Berkowitz will be restricted for Freshmen Housing. Fortunately for upperclass students, all the RD apartments in "freshmen" halls will be designated for them.

Also, campus itself faced various changes. For instance, the college received a new database system, Datatel. This system is used to store school records. Many administration and staff members have gone through numerous training sessions to learn the intricacies of the program. There have also been renovations to various buildings throughout the year. Dur-

At sunset tranquility can be found any place on campus.

Everyone has their own nightly rituals. Tommy Arndt, Jay Bigley, Jason Lutz, and Brock Bender gather in Work Hall for Dawson's Creek.

Something that you might take advantage of and consider it as being simple can become beautiful in a different light ing the summer various residence halls were repainted and some received new furniture. The Counseling Center received a new set up. Two new offices were constructed and the Learning Center was moved back upstairs. Face lifts were also given to the APR and Gym. Some of the classrooms in Feldman were granted new desks.

New Horizons were also brought to the campus community through changes that students face as each new year begins. As the seniors graduate unknown horizons lie ahead of them. They face the decision of where they are going and what they will be doing. Freshmen, for the first time experience being away from home. These students face decisions of what classes to take and what to get involved in. The whole student body has new teachers and classes upon the beginning of each semester. Even faculty experience these changes as new students enroll in their classes and peers retire, leaving the Del Val Community. Sadly

Dr. Gary Brubaker left the Small Animal Science Department and Dr. Michael Bodri took over his position as the Department Chair.

The Cornucopia has even embarked upon New Horizons. This year we recieved new advisors, Mrs Joann Donigan and Dr. Greg Smith. Also, the Cornucopia went from being under the Office of Student Life to the English Department. Although the transition was a little rocky we have overcome the obstacle and produced this very book full of memories that will stay with you throughout the many horizons we will all face in the years to come. Many new people were recruited as staff members which helped diverse the organization and its ideas for stories.

Zing, one of the three breeding boars at Farm #3, loves to greet visitors as they enter the barn.

1999 Dedication to Dr. Fredrick Hofsaess

Through the years, many students that have received their education from Delaware Valley College return to where their horizons first began to give back to this fine establishment. 1999's dedicatee graduated from Del Val in 1967 with a bachelors in Animal Husbandry. He received his masters and Ph. D in Reproductive Physiology from the Animal Science Department at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University. In 1970, he returned back to Del Val to teach meat animal and equine production courses. Dr. Fredrick Hofsaess became chairmen of the Animal Science Department in 1978 and since then he has supervised the teaching and production programs within the Large Animal Science program.

The dedication and hard work that Dr. Hofsaess has done has not gone unnoticed. In 1989, he received the Distinguished Faculty Award for outstanding service as a teacher, counselor, and contributor to the college and community. The NACTA Eastern Region Outstanding Teacher Award was given to him in 1991. He was the A-Day Dedicatee in 1996 along with being recognized as a Who's Who Among American Teachers. In October 1997 he received the College's Centennial Award.

Along with all his accomplishments, Dr. Hofsaess belongs to the Standardbred Breeders and Owners Association of New Jersey and Pennsylvania, United States Trotting Association (USTA), Standardbred Retirement Foundation, Harness Horse Youth foundation, and a licensed harness racing owner/ trainer/ driver in PA and NJ. He is also a member of the American Society of Animal Science and advises the Block and Bridle Club.

Besides all the hard work Dr. Hofsaess does for the school he finds time to spend time with his family. He and his wife Betty have been married for thirty years and have two grown children Ede and Todd.

With all of his accomplishments, “Doc”, as he is known at DVC, has given tremendously to the DVC community. Students see him as a very dedicated, heartwarming individual who is always willing to lend a hand to students. He pushes students to do their best and stresses the importance of working hard.

Pat Callahan looks into passing on his resume in hopes of an interview.

Liz Lyons and Kevin Long enjoy the relaxation at a Senior Social.

JFB Founders: Dave Hudock, Chuck Roohr, and Jim Beagin make friends with the camera on the parade route.

Wow that went fast. 3 yrs at del val and my last semester on semester at sea travelling the world. I countrest my college memories will last a life time as well as some of the friends I made along the way. My dep-est thanks to my mother who supported me thru it all seven Police Academy. I love & appreciate you more than you'll ever know! Best wishes to everyone on their journeys into the real world. Reach for the stars and expect nothing less.

Eric R. Labs

We are finally out of here, but now the real world starts. Mom and Dad thank you for all your help through school. College was the best time of my life partying and hanging out with my friends. In the future I'm going to make beer pong a professional sport. Hippa! and I are Pong Champions and will challenge anyone who wants to get beat. Good luck to all my friends and everyone else in the future.

Kevin D. Long

Chris, always remember the angry beavers rule! Chewy, never forget our KI & ornaments and late night wings. Maureen, when I make my millions I'll buy you your very own manatee. Bron, Dait Jim, you are such a beaver! Tim, I am the T.M.C Champion. You will always refer to me as the champ, and that goes for you too Jeff. Jeff is yellow. Kurt I rather have a sandwich I am El Guapo, not OJ, it's never 10/15, and I don't drive a white bronco! Beavers!

Kristin Lutscher

Thanks M&D for your love & support, I could not have done it w/out you! Fred-UR a great friend & brother. DC, MK, CS, LA, KC, CO-U guys are the best Fr yr BPL. Sate, GCA, brand-rubber arm, pillow talk- teateme! Mon

People come and People go but you will always remember the special few who touched your life. I give special thanks to my mom, grandparents and Dan... Without your love and support the past 4 years wouldn't have been possible. I had a great time and I learned a lot. Lesson #1-Don't go in the jungle with Banana Men! Best wishes always to the library staff and all of the friends I have made in my 4 years at DVC!

Elizabeth Lyons

To all my friends I made at DVC You better keep in touch and I will look forward to our next beer together! To my family Thank you for all your love and support! I love you! To Zesh You have made being "special" the best thing in the world. Thank you for all the great times and here's to all the new memories we will make in the future. Well I guess it's the end of four years on the "other side" of the state. I'm definitely going to miss all my Alpha Phi Omega brothers. Youz have provided some of the best and most lasting memories of all. Shawn, all I can say is the letter. Sue, thanks for laughs and the ear to listen. I hope I'm invited to the wedding. Matt never lose that nyer way. Dan you were the best boss a student could ask for. Kat, Jules, and all the rest in SGB. Equi-ne-City. Thanks

As Time Goes By
By Kelly D. Barnes

Four years have gone by
Old friends have stayed with you,
New friends have come along,
New memories are made,
Reminiscid each time you are together.

Classes begin, classes end,
Professors pass on their knowledge,
In hopes you will take it with you on your journey.

Events come and go,
Improving each year,
When year four rolls in
You begin to think of where you might go.

You look to the world for advice
On where to go and what to do,
Only to realize
The answer is within yourself.

After resumes and interviews
You begin to have an idea,
But continue to look behind
To see if you missed something.

Looking ahead is not an option until graduation,
Although a small part of your future is mapped out,
You look at the long, winding path you made
To where you are.

As you walk across the stage,
You thank the Lord
For all that has happened,
Knowing it was all to get you where you are today.

Your friends and family wish you luck,
Hoping you only receive the best,
Congratulations and shoot only for the stars.

Spring Break

CANCUN

Through the year, the Class of 1999 officers worked hard on planning the Spring Break trip to Cancun. There were a total of 15 travelling including Mr. Schlegel as advisor. Departure from Del Val took place on Friday, March 5th taking them to LA and then to Cancun. On Sunday, a welcome party was given at Fat Tuesday's. The party included various exotic mixed drinks and crazy contests. Next came the booze cruise on Monday. They travelled to Isla Mujeres and enjoyed dinner, competed in contests, and rode the mechanical bull.

Tuesday night continued the trip with a Jam Session at Dady Rock. Music was featured from the 70's, 80's, and 90's. They went to a Mardi Gras theme on Wednesday for a night at Pat O'Briens. Thursday evening the group split up and visited places they wanted to see. Some of them went to Senor Frogs and others went to the $1.00 Corona Bar. On Friday night they returned to the airport for their trip back to Del Val. Boy was that a quick trip.

Of course, no trip is complete without funny happenings and sayings that you're sure to not forget. Do any of you remember the 7th floor club or Go Widener or the One man Foam Party for Chuck?!? "Tom, take the deadbolt off"---this is one interesting story no trip should be without.

Everyone enjoyed the crystal blue waters, the sunshine, the beer, and the fun memories that they will carry with them.

Story by Kelly D. Barnes

Tommy Koehler sees himself as being King of the world or at least this ocean. Certainly hope he doesn't jump!

The group gathered for their last meal in Cancun at Carlos & Charlies.

Jill Baker, Kelly Lerner, Jess Lerner, and Mr. Schlegel relax on the beachfront enjoying the cool breezes coming off the waves.

Dave Hudock displays this Garfield hat as he relaxes at one of the bars visited during the stay in Cancun.

Testing palm tree climbing skill-?? That's what Billy Somma seems to be doing.

The wall outside the hotel was a favorite spot for all, especially good for group shots. Here we have Jeff Brightcliff, Dave Hudock, Tommy Koehler, Eric Joseph, Billy Somma, Jim Beagin, Chuck Roohr, and Nick Feito enjoying the early part of sunset.

This beautiful view is of the bridge from Nassau to Paradise Island Various humorous, but serious signs were spotted around the Atlantis Hotel grounds.

Could this be the one? Tifanie Sbriscia didn't just go for the sunshine, she was hoping to scope out a guy.

The famous Atlantis Hotel on Paradise Island. To stay in the arch costs $25,000 a night!!

The group of students are on their way to Robinson Caruso Island. Lori Gregalis, Lisa Melham, Dan Grannis, Pat Callahan, Kurt Ginter, Wendye Neubauer, Stephanie Bumbaugh, Jeff Orban, Carol Moore, and Scott Yules enjoyed the day full of fun activities to do.

Alternative Break

Vacations are a time of relaxation and fun, however, Spring Break for these individuals started out pretty rocky. The Bahamas trip was set up by a local travel agency. The 21 Spring Breakers were to leave on Saturday, March 6th and return March 13th. Unfortunately, two days before departure a call came in saying they had to leave Friday instead. With excitement everyone packed up early and headed out. Once at Nassau, everyone settled down in the

Hilton Hotel. It was under construction, but didn't ruin the trip for these guys. During the week, the group visited various clubs such as the Zoo. This placed

Dreams located on the beach featured day and night time activities allowing many to drop in at various times. Their activities had themes like Mardi Gras. Also frequented, was the Waterloo which had inside and outside facilities. D J Monday night every one attended the booze booth on the Yellow Bird renovated lasting 3 hours full of dancing and rum punch. On Wednesday, the group went on a day trip to Robinson and Crusoe's Island. Many of the students went snorkelling, kayaking, or just relaxed at the beach. The daytime events were up to the individual. Activities included: beach bound, shopping at Straw Market, renting mopeds, or taking in the sites of Nassau. Some even went to Paradise Island to see the Atlantis Hotel and play the casinos. Unfortunately, some got sick while on vacation calling it the "Bahamian Plague". Overall a great time was had by all.

Story by Lori Gregolis.

Jared Fogg, Scott Yules, and Pat Callahan enjoy the sun, but hey is it bright in the eyes!

Some of girls enjoy relaxing on the beach outside the hotel with drinks to quench their thirst. Wonder what's in the cups?!

Is Colleen Kearns having trouble walking or is that just the boat making her wobble? Better help her out Tif.

Senior Socials

A highlight of senior year are the senior socials put together by the Class Officers. Seniors gather for a few hours at least once a month to chat, relax, and have some drinks. They revel in these opportunities as they are the honored guests celebrating what will be approaching closer and closer as each social goes by---Commencement!! Being the Class of 1999, we celebrated long and hard on February 11th, as it marked "99 Nights Til Graduation". The social was filled with music from our very own Bill Taylor as DJ. and fun as everyone enjoyed the excitement of knowing there was only a short time left to go. Each senior attending the social w a s given a " 9 9 Nights" shirt to wear to t h e event!

Talk about unity! Our last social was held on April 8th behind Admissions with a picnic. Preceding the social was the gazebo dedication to the campus. On the sentimental end, socials mark the time that has past and will soon end. Although some won't admit it, being a senior is full of sadness and sorrow as we move on and leave DVC behind with all it has given us.

By Kelly D. Barnes

Tommy Koehler can always be found smiling and lending a hand where it was needed.

Our fearless leader Jim Beagin makes sure everything is running smoothly and everyone is having a great time.

Sean Earlen is all smiles while Dr. Tom Slane pours the beer in cup. Which is it: Coors or Lager?

Class of 1999

Eric Joseph and Dave Hudock man the grill during the social. The hot dogs and burgers look done!

Watch out that first steps a doozie! Stephanie Cullins gets a boost to see everything as she stands on the chair.

This group of seniors enjoyed the day and chatted about what they will be doing after the social and after graduation.

Kelly Lerner, Jim Greenberg, Dave Franck, and Mike McNamee enjoy a few drinks while they chat for a while.

Pat Callahan and Stephanie Bumbaugh are having a good time enjoying the good food.

Dr. Slane attends every social to act as bartender, but is also a friend and mentor to many students.

Amanda Benz looks at the CD collection of WDCV to find something that all will enjoy listening to.

Nineteen Ninety Nine

And The Fun Continues

Jeff Orban seems to be having abated discussion while his tablemates looks on.

Our faithful bartenders: Dr. Slane and Dr. Orr. They never missed joining senior for some fun.

Theta Chi Sigma brothers stick together and pose together--forever!

Bethany Weiland and Art Caesar enjoy a brief chat during the picnic following the dedication.

Mr. Eyre's construction class worked hard during each class period to complete the day's task. Fellow senior Bill Taylor could always be seen on a ladder doing something.

The days were sometimes chilly, but the class effortlessly worked on the gazebo each week.

Gazebo Dedication

As a tradition each year, the senior class presents the college with a gift. The Class of 1999 wanted to give something that truly gave back to the school. Upon suggestions and comments, the decision was made to have a gazebo constructed on the grassy knoll behind Ulman Hall. This is a common area for students to stand and was a beautiful site for its location. After speaking with Mr. Howard Eyre, his construction class undertook the task of building it as their semester project. It slowly began its formation and was looking to be a marvelous structure. When the fall semester came to a close, construction was halted and would work on it after classes with the guidance of Mr. Eyre. On April 8, 1999 the gazebo was finally completed and a dedication, ribbon cutting ceremony was held. Following a brief speech of the Class President Jim Beagin and description of future landscaping plans from Mr. Eyre, the scissors were handed to Dr. Leamer. Dr. Leamer then thanked the class for the beautiful gift which will surely be enjoyed by all many years to come.

By Kelly D. Barnes

how ever picked a way by various volunteers who

Mr. Eyre gave a brief description of the future plans for the landscape around the gazebo.

Jim Beagin acknowledged those who put in long hours to complete the project.

Following the ribbon cutting, Dr. Leamer told the guests how pleased he was with the finished product.

During Homecoming 1998,
 Billy Somma was the king candidate for SIFE. What a fine young man he has become!

Maggie Flynn and Jeremy Yeager catch up at the B&B/Dairy Society Banquet. Jeremy graduated in December 1998.

John Tighe, more commonly known as Tigger, was one of the founding brothers of Alpha Gamma Rho a few years back.
 He is also a great auctioneer.

Rebecca Andrew sure can play volleyball. She was on the college team all four years.

Memories Of Years Past

An inevitable thing about being a senior is the memories, sure you have memories to reflect on each year, but as a senior you tend to do it even more. You begin to think of when you first visited the college and came to orientation. How hard it seemed to understand how the system worked regarding meals and scheduling for classes. But the most guarded memories are those you have made with the numerous friends you have made in the past four years. You begin to reminisce about stupid and funny things you did when you were a freshman or places you went. The thoughts continue to float through your head subconsciously, but they are such vivid memories that you can not help but smile to yourself and say, "These were four great years!" So, as you leave DVC remember to look at what you've accomplished and who you've become!

By Kelly D. Barnes

Dani Fulcomer along with other WDVC members coast down the parade route.

After dedication and teamwork, the 1998 Spring Formal was a success. Dave Hudock, Mike Carnevale, Kelly Barnes, Jim Beagin, Seth Klimas, and Chuck Roohr take a moment to make a memory.

Angie Gaido played her hardest during each volleyball match.

Matt Arnold, Frank Panzullo, Brian Wolfgang and Rich Baycebek catch a glimpse of the Homecoming parade from Goldman. Like so many things in student life, we don't realize what we have until it passes us by.

As Pete Dixon moves back into New Res, he appreciates the benefits of rooming at DVC.

Battles for washers and dryers were common as extra students taxed laundry facilities.

Due to improvements, the demand to live at DVC has outweighed the available resources.

New school, new friends,

A Bright New Beginning

Besides getting to know each other, orientation is also about teamwork. Mike Wasko leads freshmen in a teamwork exercise as they try to balance by sitting on each other's laps.

Really, Mom, I'll be fine. A freshman reassures her mother that she is ready to handle college life.

Orientation is a great time to hang with your friends - even if you aren't part of the Class of 2002 - Senior Bethany Davis and Junior Jen Schaeffer have a tickle-fight between sessions

Untying the human knot between these freshmen is a great way to unravel some of the stress that exists in coming to a new school. Orientation helps provide incoming freshmen with a preview of college life.

It's a long way from New Jersey, or Pittsburgh when you're driving to Del-Val to move in. Even Mom needs to stop for a juice break.

Can you believe how many freshmen we have? Allison Majewski, Nancy Daniels and Tigger marvel at how many people are moving in.

Campus Improvements Council

Positive Changes

As a subcommittee of the Student Government, the Campus Improvements Council (CIC) was formed to listen to the voices of the students. Chaired by Jessica Lerner, CIC took on several issues this year which included the laundry problem. Through meetings with Craig Pierre, CIC came up with a plan to improve laundry facilities: fixing broken machines, increasing the number of change machines available on campus. Dry erase boards were posted in the laundry facility for students to register their complaints.

Residence hall housekeeping and temperature troubles were taken care of along with lighting troubles, and trash pickups. By serving as a liaison between students and staff, the CIC was able to allow both sides to appreciate the other and to work together to make DVC a better campus.

Maggie Flynn makes use of the dryers in Work Hall. Several washers and dryers broke leaving students to do their laundry at odd hours.

"What was the whole fiasco with signups?" Hal Grosso questioned the procedures for signing up for a room.

Steve Hess, a junior, brought up many issues for the panelists to comment upon.

Dr. Betsy Arrison reported that the freshmen housing policy was instituted to insure a smoother transition for new students and helped to institute specific programming for these students.

A concerned student raised the issue of why roommates were not allowed to sign-up together.

HOUSING CRISIS

In the Spotlight

Town Meeting

"We need more beds, but we don't have enough time to build a building which will be ready for next year." Dr. Leamer answers Christi Corl's concerns about the housing process.

On Wednesday, April 21, 1999, Student Life and Student Government sponsored a town meeting to discuss the issues which arose during the sign up procedures. Mike Dalton, Student Government Treasurer, chaired the committee and worked closely with the Student Life office to set up a fair and regulated forum for the students to express their views, opinions and ideas related to the stress incurred from housing sign ups. Among the administration present were President Leamer, Dr. Chris Curry and Dr. Betsy Arrison.

Throughout the night, students questioned the rationale of the housing procedure. Students expressed displeasure that the procedure started early when students had been told that strict times would be adhered to. Many did not agree with the freshmen housing decision. This issue arose time and again throughout the evening. Andrew Dougherty, Student Government President and Dr. Arrison reminded students that this was not a time to debate the freshmen housing issue, but a time to offer suggestions toward improving the procedure for the following year.

Concern was expressed that students living in lounges and RAs with roommates make the campus feel crowded. Because of the large projected incoming freshmen class, some students were unable to reserve a room and were placed on a waiting list. Ideas were brought up to alleviate the burden included: allowing fraternities to have off-campus houses, buying housing in the area, and imposing academic restrictions to those who live in New Res. Student Life promised to look into the issues and to hopefully have the situation resolved by September.

As of the submission of this article, the original members of the waiting list were being moved to rooms on campus.

Senior class members Jim Leamer and Beth Ann Darrington contribute to the proceedings. Even though they will graduate, the housing issue of 1999 is a part of the entire student body.

Even the snow can't keep them away! Commuters had at least three special instances where they battled the snow to make it to classes this spring semester.

Time to make up for that lost sleep! Commuters often run between school and work, leaving sleep a precious commodity.

Whether you're catching the R5 or just riding under the bridge at New Britain Road, no commuter's day would be the same without this familiar SEPTA site.

Run for the gold -- turkey that is -- several students ran in this year's Turkey Trot. The winner receives a Thanksgiving turkey.

Livestock Judging Team

The team practiced their swine judging skills at the Imler Genetics Farm in Ohio. Each of the members had to wear protective coveralls so diseases are not transmitted to the animals.

This years Judging Team consisted of John Tighe, Amy Shiffler, Mr. Gilbert, Claudette Gilbert, Laura Mayer, and Christie Rager.

The Large Animal Science department at DVC sponsors the Annual Livestock Judging Team. This group of five students spends a semester preparing for competition through the Advanced Livestock Selection class offered every Spring. The team then competes in a variety of competitions in the Fall semester. To maintain their edge, regular trips are taken to practice judging at local farms. In a typical contest, each team member judges 12 classes composed of market and breeding classes of sheep, beef, and swine. After the judging is completed, oral reasons on eight classes are presented (without notes!) and scored by an official. A good livestock judge can picture the class in his/her mind and coherently present reasons-- a bit of a challenge when you have 12 classes swimming in your head.

This year's judging team competed at Eastern States Exposition (MA), Eastern National Livestock Show (MD), Keystone International Livestock (PA), the Main Event (OH), and the North American International Livestock Exposition (KY). DVC is proud to boast beating Penn State in the market lamb class at the national competition in KY.

Numerous farms were visited en route to these competitions, the most memorable being Minnerich Land and Cattle Company. "It's a great experience. It's a lot of hard work, but it's worth it," was the sentiment echoed by each member of the team. Each one leaves with memories bursting with competitions, beautiful farms, somersaulting in hotel rooms, saddle sores from 8+ hour days in the van, Wendy's, Bob Evan's, chicken fried steak, and Motel 6. Highlights of their travels include Lonestar and traveling with West Virginia University.

The team encourages other students to consider joining the team. "This is the best class you can take at DVC," they claim. For those following behind them they intone, "We'll leave the light on for you."

The 1998 livestock judging team would also like to send a special thank you to Dr. Hofsaess, Chairperson of the Large Animal Science Department, and Coach Rodney Gilbert who made this experience possible.

Farm Show

Sleepless days and restless nights? Shane Betz, manager of the Dairy, catches a few winks while he can, just hope he doesn't choke on that piece of straw!

DVC shows proud and strong in this display next to the dairy cattle.

Each year, Delaware Valley College's Farm #3 and the Dairy take animals to the Pennsylvania Farm Show to not only show the animals, but to advertise the college. This year, Farm #3 took a few of the Herefords that they felt were the best of the lot and after hard work and dedication by the farm staff, they looked great and were ready to go. The Dairy took numerous cattle and had a beautiful display next to the animals advertising Del Val and its great Animal Science Program. Students working at the farms during break are often given the opportunity to go along to show and keep the area clean and spotless. This year, the dairy received 1st and 4th places for the housekeeping contest done at unannounced times during each day of the show.

In the exhibit area, Alumni Association and a few students who act as ambassadors for the college were there to answer any questions that anyone may have about the college and its programs. Pamphlets and booklets were available for the taking as well as temporary Aggie tatoos. The beautiful display featured pictures of the college community. You could see Dr. Ben teaching, Crystal Wheeler working, the animals grazing and many other things that can be seen any day on campus.

Employment on the Horizon

Career Day

Laurie Kline helps students sign in as they go job searching at Career Day. Laurie works in the Career office and coordinates the event.

John Santoro & Steve Hess fill out a questionnaire on how helpful Career Day was. This helps the office make improvements for next year.

Career Day attendance is on the rise, forcing the increasing number of recruiters to move to a larger building. DVC's 17th Career Day, held February 25, outgrew the APR and expanded into the James Work and Rudley Neuman Gymnasiums. The new location provided more room for the 376 students and 150 business and graduate school representatives who attended.

Sponsored by the Office of Career and Life Education, Career Day is open only to Del Val students. This annual event allows students to distribute resumes to potential employment, set up interviews, and network for part time, full time, and summer employment, internships and graduate schools. Underclassmen may learn of possible career directions.

60-70% of the companies attended annually, according to Mike Ellis, Director of Career and Life Education. Although the majority of the recruiters are from regional businesses, with the concentration in Pennsylvania and New Jersey, representatives are also available from other parts of the country.

Some students felt this year's large percentage of business and ornamental horticulture recruiters was unfair to other majors. They would like to see more animal science and food science opportunities. Ellis also admits there were few equine and chemistry representatives, but says these industries are often small, privately owned businesses who hire few employees.

Fifty more students attended than last year, and the Office of Career and Life Education plans on using the gymnasiums again next year. Ellis would like to see even more students attend the day, but he says the low turnout may be a positive sign that many students already have jobs.

Winter

Various members of the Dairy Society were given the opportunity to attend the Winter Royal Fair in Canada. It promotes the excellence in agriculture, horticulture and equestrian activities through world class competitions, exhibitions and educational experiences. There are over 350,000 attendees throughout the 10 day festivity. Not only were there cattle, but also many horses, goats, birds, pigs, and sheep. Students were given the opportunity to watch various judging shows and auctions as well as look at the numerous educational displays around the coliseum. These displays showed everything from

JDF Walk-

On March 21st, Service Council and the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation (JDF) teamed up to have the first JDF Walk-A-Thon here through campus. All money raised went to benefit JDF and their efforts against diabetes.

The walk was approximately 3 miles going both through the campus and along surrounding roads. Also volunteers stood at three water stations along the route. Despite the chilly weather there was a great turn-out. Approximately, 39 people came to walk or help out in some way.

The organization team was made up of Allison Majewski, Devon Wilcox, Leeann Boyce, Rachel Moyer, Mitzi Weikel, Karen Fritzinger, and JDF Rep Ron Greeby. From all donations and the sneakers sold by clubs, approx. $3000 was raised.

Due to a forecast of inclement weather it was all moved inside. Numerous students, faculty, staff, and administration were in attendance as well as family, friends, and alumni. To kick off the festivities, the pig was roasted and served with other delicious foods and desserts. Before the auction, Sigma Alpha (SID) announced the winners of their kiss a pig contest. This was a fundraiser where numerous members of the campus community were nominated and their names placed on cups. Donations were put in the cups by various people as to who they would like to kiss the pig. The contestants were broken into three categories: Students, Faculty, Staff & Administration.

It was the traditional windy and cold atop the football stadium bleachers on October 3, but the few drops of rain that dared to briefly show themselves were inconsequential compared to the rainy deluge of '97. The crowds responded to the fair weather, with DelVal students, faculty, and alumni crowding onto campus for this year's homecoming celebration.

Berthold presented the men's and women's cross country teams while wearing his traditional pep rally attire—gifts from past runners that ranged from bumble bee slippers to boxer shorts. The rally was completed with the rallying of the 1998-1999 DVC Football team, and all those watching the rally felt the bleachers tremble as the football players

The homecoming King and Queen and their court were announced during half time.

John Soderberg poured off the bleachers onto the gym floor.

Saturday's events began with the homecoming parade that wound its way from Doylestown to the college campus. Floats and spirit cars sponsored by various clubs and DelVal alumni, homecoming king and queen candidates, and the DVC band helped round out the parade.

John Soderberg sponsored by Theta Chi Sigma, and Bethany Davis sponsored by the Class of 1999 received the king and queen honors. The dance between the halls was rained out Saturday night. It was moved briefly into the gym, but when the DJ did not arrive, the event was cancelled. Sunday morning the annual alumni breakfast was held, as the 1998 Homecoming events drew to a close. A major student concern of this year's homecoming events was the enforcing of the DVC Alcohol policy. Stu

Homecoming '98 was kicked off with the annual pep rally, fireworks over the softball field, and a concert outside the Student Center on Friday night. In the main gym, sport teams rallied before the school, the king and queen candidates were presented, and the DVC Cheerleaders and Step Team performed briefly. Dr.

The winners for floats were Horticulture Society for 1st, Dairy Society, (2nd), and Landscape Nursery Club and Block & Bridle tied for 3rd. Spirit Car winners were Floral Society (1st), SAC (2nd), and Turf Club (3rd). This was followed by the women's field hockey game and the homecoming football game.

dents were not allowed to carry around containers of any kind during homecoming, including at the dance between the halls. This caused an uproar from students over 21 who wished to be allowed to publicly drink. There was not enough time to register the weekend as a social event, in which case bracelets would have been administered to those students of legal drinking age. Student Government sponsored an open campus town meeting to discuss the problem. Student concerns were mediated by interim Dean of Students Dr. Betsy Arrison. In the end, however, the alcohol policy remained in effect.

Since the tailgate parties during the football game are hosted by the alumni, they were not affected by the alcohol policy. Those students who were of a legal age were therefore allowed to drink during this time. Some students responded to their alcohol restrictions by pinning the "No Public Drinking" signs to their backs during these tailgate parties. Overall, however, the weekend passed without any major alcohol issues.

Another homecoming came and slipped away.

On December 6, 1998, the Student Government Board hosted the Winter Semi-Formal in the APR. The committee headed by VP, Chuck Roohr with Kelly Barnes as head of decorations did a tremendous job in planning the event. Once again, the APR was transformed into an evening of elegance. This year's theme, "Grandest Gift Ever" took the decorations to new heights. There was a giant 12'X12' present, a 16' Christmas Tree beautifully decorated, and a 5' snowman, along with other various special touches. A sleigh was borrowed for the night, being used as the main place for group and couple shots. Everyone attending enjoyed the grand feast provided by Wood Co. and wide range of music provided by the DJ. People were seen doing everything from the macarena and electric slide to line and swing dancing. Once again, the annual winter formal was a great success.

Each year students are recognized for their hardwork and dedication to their academics. These students have all kept their GPAs at 3.0 or higher.

Numerous are recognized for being named to the Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges or the Dean's List. Awards are also presented to students who have show outstanding contributions to the college through Student Government while keeping their grades high.

Dr. Orr awards those who have completed the Honor's Program. Bethany Davis, Rene Hilderbrand, and Emily Koch were the proud recipients of this prestigious honor. Mr. Schlegel, Advisor to Delta Tau Alpha, awarded the members with their honors. Many of the students were also recognized for their leadership in various sports.

Of course, the community of DVC isn't complete without the recognition of numerous faculty and staff members who have highly influenced the success of the students here.

By Kelly D. Barnes

Johnnie Figueroa was recognized for being on the Dean's List for three consecutive semesters.

Dr. Ben Rusiloski, one of DVC's most respected professors, gave opening and closing remarks at the ceremony.

Andrew Dougherty was recognized for Who's Who, Dean's List and Nat'l Collegiate Student Government Award. Doc is the President of SGB.

President Dr. Leamer welcomed everyone to Award's Day ceremony and congratulated all recipients.

Ellen Derrick is congratulated by two of her professors. Ellen was recognized for being one of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Wendy Harvey is recognized for her hardwork and dedication as a DVC Staff Member.

Junior Tifanie Sbriscia was awarded for her outstanding Athletic Leadership of the Women's Soccer team. Her family attended the ceremony with her.

Swing In The City

1999 Spring Formal

Greg Paxson must really enjoy the music, he certainly is dancing away!!

This year the Junior class gave complete elegance to the Spring Formal. With the theme of "Swing In The City", all attendees were ready to go on the "town" the evening of Saturday, March 27th.

As you entered, all ladies received a long-stemmed red rose from the maitre d'. A red carpet led to the checkered dance floor and beyond it stairs leading to the city scape. The cuisine prepared by Wood company consisted of three choices: chicken, steak, or vegetarian. The dessert was special made for the event.

To start off the dancing some swing music was played to go with the theme. As the evening continued, many other well-known songs were played by the DJ as well as along with numerous requests and dedications. At times the music slowed down and everyone either rested their feet or grabbed that special someone.

Overall it was the largest formal with approximately 200 in attendance. The night was full of fun, laughter, and memories.

Wednesday, April 19, 1999 at 3:30 pm in the All Purpose Room of the Student Center, the traditional Founder's Day ceremony began. Faculty, Staff, Administration, students and guests filtered into the room for the convocation. Following the National Anthem and invocation Gerard Marini, Chairman of the Board of Trustees said a few words and then introduced the speaker.

John Rigolizzo '75 is a farmer and the President of the New Jersey Farm Bureau. His first statement was his amazement at the "biggest band he has ever seen at Del Val". His motivational speech made everyone realize that we can not move forward unless we know what lies behind us. He noted that today is not only a day to celebrate our founder's but to celebrate the impact on the community that various members of the college have had over the years. He specifically told the students to think of where they've been, where they are, and where they are going and to remember that there is no other place like DVC. Here it is an experience because you are a person and not a number. Most importantly, John stressed that we must continue the legacy of DVC!

The following were recipients of the listed award at this year's ceremony. Ann Dematteo, June Bitzer, and Mary Jane Sarge were recognized for their 20 yrs. of service. The W.W. Smith Prize, $5000 scholarship, was awarded to both Katie Evanchalk and Christie Rager. The Student Government Award recipients were Dr. Ziemer, Jim Sutton and George Theo. Dr. Arrison awarded Kelly Lerner with the Founder's Day award and recognized all the nominees. Staff Member of the Year was Rebecca Merritt who is part of the Equestrian Center staff. Dr. Mike Bodri received the Distinguished Faculty Member Award for his hardwork and dedication to the students. Dr. Gary Brubaker, Dr. Theodore Christie, and Dr. Richard Lugar were all recognized with Faculty Emeriti awards.

Third Time's A Charm

The Del Val volleyball team, under head coach Sondra Stocko, posted its third consecutive winning season as the Aggies finished 15-12 overall, 2-4 in Middle Atlantic Conference.

It was the first time in the 19-year history that the Aggies had three straight winning campaigns. Del Val went 16-10 in 1996 and finished 18-14 last year.

Leading the success was Suzanne Bishard, who broke seven school records during the season. The junior set new single-season standards with 471 kills and a .321 hitting percentage while also adding single-match marks with 31 kills and 75 attempts in a five-set win over Elizabethtown on Oct. 9.

Bishard, who did not play her freshman year, is the Aggies' all-time leader in kills (885), kill attempts (1,949) and hitting percentage (.314). This may be her last year with the program since she is awaiting word on early entrance into Vet School.

Bishard was ranked in the MAC's top 10 all season in kills, digs, aces and hitting percentage while placing as high as 10th in Division III in kills. She was also second on the team in aces (52) and blocks (34).

Setter Terra Lutz added to her record-breaking numbers as she dished out 872 assists on the season. The junior just missed matching the school's single-season assists mark of 875 (which she set last year) but she upped her career total to an Aggie record 2,342 assists. Lutz also set a new single-match standard by tallying 48 assists in the win over Elizabethtown.

Senior Rebecca Andrew graduates as Del Val's all-time digs leader with 1,048. The four-year starter and two-year captain led the team with 346 kills and was fourth in both assists (30) and aces (27).

Both Angie Gaido and Wendy Stellingwerf wrapped up their two-year careers with the Aggies. Gaido joined the team last year after a two-year stint with the basketball squad. She finished the season with 115 kills, 187 digs and a team-high 61 blocks. Stellingwerf collected 113 kills and 163 digs.

Freshman Liz Carbine, Amanda DeSiderio and Kathleen McMahon rounded out the Delaware Valley roster. Carbine recorded 32 digs, 21 kills and nine aces in 59 games. DeSiderio saw action in 31 games and produced 25 kills. McMahon had 12 digs in 25 games.

by Matt Levy & Matt Hostrander

Freshman Crista Sewald is showing here kill skills as she spikes the ball to the opponents. Sewald was second on the team with 182 kills.

Rebecca Andrew shows off her best move, which she holds the most of, as she digs the ball for a teammate to hit over the net.

Junior - "I want to thank Coach Dell from zooming it to me. I thought it would have been a great shot to fall down to the floor."

Another - "I'll thank Chris for that old dig - which he was third in. He digs the ball to the front of the court in hope that a teammate will hit it over."

What a dig! Senior Angie Gaido might have to take some splinter out after the play as she falls to the floor on her save for the team.

A Record Breaking Season

The men's soccer team ended up with a record-breaking 1998 season. The Aggies set a new mark for victories and posted their third-ever winning season as they went 10-7-1 overall, 1-5-1 in MAC-Freedom League Play.

The 10 wins broke the previous record of eight set by the 1993 team and was a big improvement from last year's 5-12-1 finish. This year's squad set new season marks for goals (38), assists (27), points (103) and shutouts (7) while also posting a new standard with four straight shutouts.

Senior midfielder Byran Purcaro became Aggies' all-time leader in goals, assists and points. He ended the year fourth on the team with six goals and three assists for 15 points to up his career totals to 21 goals and 13 assists for 55 points. Purcaro capped his career by scoring the game-winning goal in the 3-2 season-finale win over Moravian for the team's 10th win of the year.

Forward Phil Bowen began his collegiate career in record-breaking style as the freshman set new Del Val single-season marks with 11 goals and 26 points.

Senior forward Nate Bradshaw settled for second place behind Bowen with eight goals and a school-record tying six assists for 22 points. Bradshaw also spent time on defense for the Aggies.

Freshman midfielders Logan Dunn and Tommy Arndt played major roles in the Del Val turnaround. Dunn finished third on the team in scoring with six goals and six assists for 18 points. Arndt used a strong leg to place fifth in scoring with four goals and three assists for 11 points.

Sophomores John Clifford and Kevin Gasiorowski played solid defense all year long and finished with four and three points respectively.

Fellow stopper and co-captain Anthony DeThomas collected a goal for two points. Freshman Eric Lengle stepped in and recorded an assist.

Senior keeper Mike McNamee ended a solid career that saw him place second all-time in saves with 421 while also recording nine shutouts. He played in 15 games this season and posted five wins, 98 saves, four shutouts and a 1.71 goals against average.

Freshman James Kerr saw time in goal in seven games. He went 5-0 with four shared shutouts. Sophomore Pat Brawley did not allow a goal in 135 minutes of play.

1,2,3,4 Who Wants More?

The women's soccer team finished the season with a 12-4-1 record overall, 4-2-1 in the MAC, and it also was the Aggies' fourth consecutive winning campaign.

Del Val tied a school-record with 12 wins and set a new mark with a .735 winning percentage, and leading the way for the Aggies was senior forward Emilie Replogle, who will go down in the record books as one of the most prolific scorers in NCAA Division III history. The three-time MAC-Freedom League First Team All-Star and three-time MVP, paced Del Val and the conference with 19 goals and 15 assists for 53 points. She has a total of 230 points in 68 games, which is the third-highest known total in Division III history. Also, she holds every women's soccer scoring record in Aggie history.

Junior midfielder Diann Doderer exploded in '98 with eight goals and an assist of 17 points. Britt Ingvertsen tied for second in scoring with Doderer as the midfielder collected seven goals and three assists.

Sophomore midfielder Stacy Richenderfer placed fourth on the team five goals and an assist for 11 points.

Freshman Marcy Estey and Kirsten Reis had solid rookie campaigns and finished with seven and five points respectively. Estey, a forward, started all 17 games and scored three goals while Reis, a midfielder, found the net on two occasions.

Sophomore Danielle Brubaker and freshman Kim Shamberger added a goal and an assist apiece for three points on the season.

Defensively, the Aggies allowed just 17 goals on the whole season. Sophomore Jessica Perry played her first year of collegiate soccer and the keeper recorded all 12 of the team's wins along with 157 saves and a 1.10 goals against average. She tied a school record with eight shutouts. Freshman Roxann Hughes played in net in the second half of the final four games of the year and did not allow a goal while stopping 17 shots.

Junior Tifanie Sbriscia and sophomore Jennifer Vennebush were solid at back all season long. Both players picked up an assist as well.

Senior midfielder Tracey Decker missed 11 games due to a knee injury. Decker was a 1997 MAC-Freedom League Team All-Star and finished on the Colleges all-time scoring list with five goals and 11 assists for 21 points.

GIVING IT ALL THEY GOT

Field Hockey, with a 9-9 record marked the first non-losing campaign since 1992. They tied a school record with four consecutive wins and were tough in the close games, winning eight of 11 one-goal contests. The Aggies also came up with 2-3 in the MAC. This was one of the teams most productive seasons in the 25 year history of the program.

The Aggies were in every game thanks to the brilliant goal tending of Danielle Rugg. The junior and 1997 MAC-Freedom League Second Team All-Star was in the net for every minute played this season. Rugg recorded 166 saves, four shutouts and 1.41 goals against average. Her four shutouts tied an Aggie single-season record while her career total of 10 blankings established a new school record. Rugg also became Del Val's all-time saves leader this year with 458.

The Aggies had a strong defense, led by senior sweeper Kelly White who made a number of defensive saves on the year and helped keep opponents to an average of 14 shots per game.

The offense was led by junior forward Tara Garner, who collected five goals and four assists for 14 points. Four of her goals were game-winners.

Freshman Jessica Schweighofer and senior Stephanie Bumbaugh followed with four goals for eight points each. Two of Schweighofer's goals came in the 2-1 victory over Albright. Bumbaugh finished her four-year career with 15 goals and two assists for 32 points.

Senior back Samantha Thomas provided aggressive play as well as a strong shot on corner opportunities. She finished fourth on the team with two goals and two assists for six points. Midfielder Caroline Cowen followed with a goal and two assists for four points. It was also Cowen's first goal of her collegiate career.

Freshmen forwards Denise Bailey and Lauren McCartney added three points apiece. Bailey collected a goal and an assist, including the game-winning tally with 77 seconds against King's. McCartney got her total from three assists.

Mandy Naugle and Joy Leshner rounded out the Aggies scorers. Naugle, a junior midfielder, assisted on two goals, while Leshner, a freshman back, set up one Delaware Valley tally. Leshner's playing ability was a big reason for the team's improvement.

The Delaware Valley College 1998 Football Team.

STARTING Off On The Right FOOT

The football team got off to its best start since 1985 with a 3-1 record. The big win was a 28-16 victory over perennial power Moravian College on Homecoming.

Head coach Glen Leonard and his squad opened the season by beating W.V. Tech on artificial turf as quarterback Joey Shenko threw for 236 yards and two touchdowns.

The next week saw the team take on an Albright squad that had reached the post-season in each of the last three seasons. The Aggies went ahead to 20-19 in the last quarter but a late Albright touchdown gave them the victory.

Del Val hosted La Salle U. for its home opener on Sept. 26 and shutout the Explorers 29-0. Shenko threw for two scores and rushed for a touchdown while the defense held La Salle without a point for the second year in a row.

The Moravian game followed and had many dramatic moments. The first occurred just before halftime as Dan Osada intercepted a pass and returned it 68 yards for a touchdown. On the first play of the second half, Shenko hit Matt Altieri for a 75 yard TD. Altieri was named Homecoming MVP and MAC Offensive Player of the Week.

However, a 27-26 loss the next week at FDU-Madison began a downslide that led to the 3-7 finish. There were individual highlights throughout the way.

Shenko became DVC's all-time leading passer in yardage and touchdown as the junior increased his career totals to 4,366 yards and 41 touchdowns. He also set new seasonal marks with 2,006 yards and 18 scoring passes.

Bill Mann finished second on the Aggie single-season list with nine sacks. The junior defensive end accomplished this feat despite missing two full games and portions of others with injuries.

But the story of the year was the play of Altieri. In just his second season of football since the age of 12, the wideout caught 46 passes for 856 yards and eight touchdowns. The eight receiving touchdowns tied the school record for a single-season while his 15 career scores also matched that mark. He tied a third record by hauling in 11 passes in the loss to FDU-Madison.

Altieri was one of the five Aggies to be named MAC-Freedom League First Team All-Stars. He was joined on the list by Mann, Terrance Oliver, Tim Quinn and Matt Soncini. Tight end Mike Holderman received Second Team.

Sophomore Jonathan Hoxworth kicks a field goal for Del Val as the ball holder just releases the ball to be kicked.

A quick hand-off by the quarterback Bobby Spross to runningback Jonathan Klag is all the J.V. team needed to get the play moving.

STRIDING FOR The Win

The Delaware Valley College cross country teams, under head coach Dr. Robert Berthold, Jr., both ended up their seasons with 1-3 records in head-to-head meets while also participating in a number of invitationals.

The men's top finish of the year was a fourth-place showing in the seven-team, Muhlenberg Invitational on September 19. The women's team was sixth out of eight teams at the same race.

Sophomore Steve Lafferty was the top Aggie finisher in six of seven meets this season, including the Middle Atlantic Conference and NCAA Middle Atlantic Region Championships. Lafferty's best time was 29:15 as he placed 29th at the Drew Invitational while his 16th-place showing at the Philadelphia Invitational earned him a medal. He finished 43rd at the MAC's and 142nd at Regionals.

Mike McCurdy also took home a medal at the Philly Small College Invitational as the freshman crossed the finish line in 19th place. His best time was 30:13 and an eight-place showing at the head-to-head meet with Albright, Alvernia, Lycoming & Muhlenberg.

Fellow freshman Bryan Lockwood and Chris Uhland competed strongly for Delaware Valley. Lockwood finished ninth at the head-to-head meets with a time of 30:14 and posted the Aggies' third-best score at the MAC's. Uhland was the team's fourth top runner at the conference meet. Junior Cory Peranich also scored points at the MAC's and served as team captain.

On the women's side, Heather Koch had a productive freshman season.

The rookie earned a medal with a 14th-place showing and a time of 22:58 at the Philadelphia Small Colleges Invitational. Koch was also the Aggies' top scorer at the MAC Championships by placing 45th.

Juniors Sandra Tatarynw and Kristen Salvesen were the next two Aggies to cross the MAC finish line. Tatarynw was 71st while Salvesen placed 75th. Salvesen also served as the team's captain during the season.

Junior Larisa Wagner and senior Jill Chambers also registered points for Delaware Valley at the conference championships.

by Matt Levy & Matt Hostrander

Keeping up the pace is definitely what junior Kristen Salvesen wanted to do so her opponent from Bryn Mawr would not be able to pass by.

Sophomore Josh Lerner is shown here sweating out the race, but still looks to be going strong.

Starting the race, Ian McDermott leads the pack with no problem.

As the race began, three of the boys were together, but will disintegrate as the race progresses.

Junior Sandra Tatarynw took the lead as her opponents creep up behind, closer and closer.

The Del Val Wrestling team tied for 25th place at the NCAA Division III Championships, and were 14-4 in dual meets for their 29th consecutive non-losing season and 20th straight winning campaign. The team placed second at the MAC Championships for the third year in a row.

Jones won five of seven matches at the NCAA Championships to place fifth at 125 pounds and earn All-American honors for the second year in a row. He is the 36th All-American in Del Val history and the ninth wrestler to accomplish the feat at least twice in a career. He finished the year with a team-best 31-4 mark.

Margelis made his first trip to nationals this year, but ended with a loss in the consolation bracket. He finished the year with a 26-6 mark and the MAC title.

Klass reached the NCAA Championships for the second year in a row but failed to earn All-American status. He ended the year off with a 21-8 mark.

Bucky Johnson went 26-6 at 141 pounds for the Aggies after transferring in from Ursinus College.

The junior captured first-place honors at the York Invitational and was runner-up at the MAC Championships.

Jason Garcia compiled a 25-6 mark at 184 pounds. The sophomore took first at the York Invitational and placed second at the MAC's. Garcia opened the year with a third-place showing at the Ithaca Invitational.

Fellow sophomore Andrew Perez won 20 of 24 matches at 133 pounds. Perez was ranked as high as fifth in Division III during the season and was conference runner-up.

Junior heavyweight Matt Kleinle was the senior member of a young Aggie squad. He went 25-7 on the year with a first-place title at York and third-place finished at the MAC's and Ithaca. Kleinle moved into eighth place on the Del Val all-time victory list with 83 career wins.

Justin Kovacs and Mark Thatcher recorded 18 and 12 respectively. Kovacs, a sophomore, finished with an 18-10 mark. Thatcher went 12-10 in his first collegiate season. Sophomore Jason Stever started all season at 165 pounds and finished with a 10-16 record. He placed fourth at the MAC's.

Women Aggies; The Best In Years

The women's basketball team exceeded all expectations this year as the Aggies compiled an 18-9 record and reached the post-season in both the MAC and Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) playoffs.

The team had won 17 games, including five MAC contests, in the previous three years combined. A pre-season poll had them finishing seventh out of eight teams. Then, in the last pre-season scrimmage, returning center Enid Dunmire went down with a knee injury and was lost for the year.

With two juniors, four sophomores and three freshman on the roster, third-year head coach Laura Rotz directed the team to monumental wins over NCAA playoff teams Scranton and St. Mary's of Maryland and recorded the second-best mark in Aggie women's history.

Del Val qualified for the MAC playoffs for the first time since 1993 and dropped an 86-66 decision to eventual conference runner-up and NCAA playoff-bound Elizabethtown College.

The women used an up-tempo offense that averaged 76.9 points per game and went over the 90-point mark five times during the year. The team's full-court pressure forced an average 24.5 turnovers per game.

Junior Jeanne Waznak had another season to remember, as the guard broke the Aggie single-season and career scoring marks, led the conference in scoring for the third straight year and was named a MAC-Freedom League All-Star for the third time. She scored 573 points to break the previous mark of 508, and then set her sights on the program's all-time scoring mark of 1,413 points, held ironically by Rotz. Waznak broke the mark, and ended with a total of 1,487 points.

Fellow backcourt mate Alisa DiBonaventura was a major key to the Aggie turnaround and was named a MAC-Freedom League Second Team All-Star. She shattered the records for assists (194) and steals (105).

Freshmen forwards Kristen Henry and Lauren Snyder played prominent roles in Del Val's winning season. Henry was second on the team in scoring with 14 points per game. Snyder led the MAC in rebounding with 282 boards to tie for second on the Aggie single-season list. She has been twice named the ECAC Rookie of the Week, and was fourth on the team in scoring with 12.3 points.

Sophomore guard/forward Jessica Perry appeared in 26 games and averaged six points and 4.5 rebounds per contest.

Fellow second-year players Michelle Wikiera and Alexis Metzger filled the void at center after Dunmire's injury. Wikiera averaged 4.5 and 4.4 rebounds, while Metzger had 4.4 points and 3.4 rebounds an outing.

Freshman guard Becky Oakley avg. 2.4 points and 1.6 rebounds. Junior guard Colleen Kearns added 1.2 points and 1.3 rebounds per game.

by Matt Levy and Matt Hostrander

Second-year center Alexis Metzger uses her good defense skills to keep the ball away from her "man."

Not every jump for a shot is successful. Freshman Kristen Henry tries to get the ball to the basket, but it is knocked out by the three women coverage of the opponent.

Aggies Shoot For Excellence

The men's basketball team finished the season with a 7-17 record.

Head coach Bill Dooley inherited a young squad when he took over late last March and directed the Aggies to a number of close games this season. Eleven games were decided by two possessions, with Del Val coming out on the winning end in three of those contests. The highlight of the season was a 79-73 victory over conference playoff-bound Lycoming College.

The top three scorers on the team were all sophomores. Jameel Hawthorne, Sam Brown and Tyree Jones. Hawthorne was the only Aggie to start all 24 games and the guard led the way with an average of 12 points per contest. Hawthorne also paced the team in three-pointers with 58.

Brown was second on the team in both scoring (11.5 avg) and rebounding (5.3 avg). The forward/center led Del Val and was second in the conference with 48 blocks.

Injuries and illnesses limited Jones to 18 starts on the year. The center finished with 9.1 points and a team-best 7.5 rebounds.

Seniors Carl Hines, Kevin Burton and Nate Bradshaw followed on the scoring sheet. Hines played in all 24 games and the swingman finished with 7.1 points and 2.1 rebounds an outing. His three-year Aggie career came to an end with 352 points and 145 boards.

Burton started six of the 24 games he appeared in and the forward contributed six points and five rebounds per contest. He recorded 653 points and 590 rebounds in his three-year career.

Bradshaw was the team's pleasant surprise this season. The guard saw action in just one game the year before but hit the court on 21 occasions, including five starts. He averaged five points, 3.8 rebounds and 1.7 steals per game.

Forwards Glenn Gray and Charles Oakley appeared in 24 and 23 games respectively. Gray, a sophomore, started three contests and chipped in with an average of five points and 2.8 rebounds. Oakley started four games and the junior averaged 3.6 points and 2.7 rebounds per performance.

Junior guard Jim Greenberg led the Aggies in assists (58) for the third consecutive year. He added 2.6 points an outing. Fellow guard Mike McCline came off the bench and the sophomore contributed with 2.4 points and 2.1 rebounds in 21 games.

Brad Transue, Brent Cammauf and Brian McCormick rounded out the Del Val roster. Transue contributed 14 points, 17 rebounds and 12 assists in 13 games. Cammauf, a freshman forward, saw action in six games and tallied four points and four rebounds. McCormick appeared in three contests and the sophomore center recorded the first two points and rebounds of his varsity career.

by Matt Levy and Matt Hostrander

Making sure the opponent does not get the ball is evident here, as sophomore Sam Brown blocks his "man."

Center Tyree Jones reaches for the ceiling as he lobs the ball up to the basket, despite the defense of the opponent.

Senior Carl Hines tries to get the basket, but is blocked by one of the King's College players.

One of the top three scorers on the team, sophomore Jameel Hawthorne, might as he releases the ball, control the rim.

Senior forward Kevin Burton's goal is to look around the court for an open teammate so he can get the ball close to the basket.

Rookies Lead The Way

The Delaware Valley College softball team went 2-23 overall, 1-13 in the Middle Atlantic Conference (MAC)-Freedom League play.

The Aggies roster consisted of ten players, eight of whom were freshman or sophomores. In fact, two the top three hitters were rookies.

Leading the team in batting was freshman leftfielder Tracie Zakarzewski. She hit .322 with 19 hits, 12 runs, six doubles and eight RBI's. Fellow classmate Susan Altomare was third on the team with a .303 average. The first baseman/pitcher added 20 hits, 11 runs, a team-high seven doubles and eight RBI's. Altomare also pitched in four games and went 0-2.

Seniors Lisa Cascone and Liz Lyons concluded their four-year playing careers. Cascone switched from first to second base this year and finished second on the squad with a .318 batting average. She led the team with 21 hits, 12 RBI's and two homeruns. She ended her career as the fifth all-time leading hitter in Del Val history with a .351 average. Lyons started all 25 games behind the plate to give 100 starts for her career. She batted a career best .293 to finish fourth on the squad. Lyons also added a double and five RBI's.

Sophomore centerfielder Brooke Bennetch and freshman third baseman Kim Tulish followed with .286 and .234 batting averages respectively. Bennetch had nine runs, five doubles and a team-high two triples while also recording a .944 fielding percentage. Tulish started 22 games at the hot corner and added two doubles and three runs scored.

Freshmen Michele Siestma and Kristen Radosevich started 25 games apiece. Siestma, a shortstop, batted .224 with three doubles, a triple and eight RBI's. Radosevich hit .208 with four runs and three doubles. She also started 23 games on the mound, picked up both of the teams victories and recorded 51 strikeouts.

Denise Bailey and Netasha Lyons rounded out the Aggie roster. Bailey started in 21 games at rightfield or third base and produced 11 hits and nine runs. Lyons started 21 games as a rightfielder or designated player. She had three hits and a RBI on the season.

by Matt Levy & Matt Hostrander

Freshman pitcher Kristen Radosevich is seen here as she grunts while releasing the ball from her amazing wind-mill technique.

Does she look captivated or what? Freshman Susan Altomare stares at the plate, making sure she keeps her eyes on the ball at all times.

ECAC Champions!

The Delaware Valley College baseball team wrapped up its record-breaking, 31-7 season in dramatic fashion by coming from behind to capture the Eastern College Athletic Conference Division III Southern Regional Championship.

The Aggies were seeded second at the four-team tournament and defeated Wesley College, 5-3 in the semifinals. That moved them into the championship game against top-seeded and host, Frostburg State. Delaware Valley trailed the 25th ranked team in the country, 5-2, heading into the top of the ninth, but the Aggies scored three runs to tie the game. They then escaped bases-loaded jams in the ninth and tenth innings, before winning the game and the championship with a run in the eleventh inning.

Jason Stackhouse was named the tournament MVP as his solo home run in the eleventh inning proved to be the game winner. Stackhouse pitched a nine-inning, nine-strikeout performance in the semifinals, then shut down Frostburg State in the eleventh for his first save of the year.

Senior third baseman Jason Stackhouse uses his strength to throw the ball from his position to first base while on the run and in the air.

Caught right after his release of the baseball, sophomore Matt Rush closely watches to see where it will end up.

Junior Daron Swire desperately reaches for third base as he slides in to score. It is not often one can capture such an awe-inspiring picture.

Using perfect form, freshman Frank Panzullo fields the baseball so it cannot enter the outfield.

"Let's take a little bit of a lead," thinks sophomore Carter Leonards, while the first baseman bends over getting ready for the throw from the pitcher.

Overall: Improvement

The Del Val women's track and field team went 3-4 during the season, improved their point total at the MAC's from 23 to 29 and placed 10th.

Jessica Perry starred for the Aggies by scoring points in the five different events. The sophomore took fifth in the 100-meter dash (14.05) and placed eight in both the 200-meter dash (27.88) and the javelin (102-4).

The Delaware Valley quartet of Perry, Nekeshia Drummond, Jamie Hill, and Alexis Metzger finished third and earned a medal in the 400-meter relay with a time of 51.76 seconds. The same group placed fourth in the 1600-meter relay with a time of (4:13.82).

Hill came close to defending her MAC championship in the 100-meter hurdles as the sophomore's time of 16.81 seconds was topped only by Jessica Sprankle of Juniata (16.48). Junior Jen Mills also placed for the Aggie women as she finished fifth in the javelin with a throw of 109-feet, three inches.

Best In Ten Years

The Delaware Valley College's men's track and field team, which went 5-3 during the season, posted their best conference finish in the decade by scoring 55 points and placing sixth at the MAC championships.

The season may not be over for one Del Val athlete, however, as Rob Woodring is on the NCAA provisional list for the javelin. The sophomore placed third at the MAC's with a toss of 193-feet, one inch.

If the number of the automatic qualifiers does not equal or better the minimum number of participants at the NCAA Division III Championships (15), then the committee turns to the provisional list for the top participants to complete the field. The NCAA Division III Championships take place at Baldwin-Wallace College (Berea, OH) from May 20-22.

Senior Nate Bradshaw captured four medals (top three finish) and placed in the top eight in a fifth event. He successfully defended his 400-meter dash championship from a year ago by edging Raymond Crooms of Widener, 49.05 to 49.10. Bradshaw also earned an individual medal with a third-place finish in the 200-meter dash (22.75 seconds). He added a fourth-place finish in the long jump with a leap of 21-feet, six inches.

Bradshaw played a key role in the medal-winning Aggie relay teams. Bradshaw, Alfie Fisher, Pat Hardy, and Clarence Williams took second in the 1600-meter relay, while Bradshaw, Fisher, Hardy, and Jon Hoxworth crossed the finish line third in the 400-meter relay. Fisher also recorded a top-eight finish as he was fifth in the long jump.

Sophomore Glenn Gray took fourth in the javelin with a throw of 190-feet, 10 inches. He made the NCAA provisional list as well, but he is at the bottom end of the chart and will not make it to nationals.

Tyree Jones, Brian Ludwig, and Joe Marco each placed in the top eight. Jones took eight in the high jump (5-9), Ludwig was sixth in the shotput (43-3.5), and Marco tied for eight in the pole vault (12-6).

STAYING UNDER PAR

The Delaware Valley College golf team went 1-9 for the 1999 season. The team did not participate at the Middle Atlantic Conference Championships.

The Aggie's lone victory game came against the University of the Sciences with a 368-413 triumph on March 31. Todd Hippauf posted a low score of 85 en route to the win.

Hippauf, a junior, was named the team's Most Valuable Player for the second time in his career. He also recieved the honor as a freshman in 1997.

Hippauf averaged an 86.5 score per match.

Freshman Andy Stutler averaged a 95.3 and earned a varsity letter. Sophomore Nate Marter earned a letter as well.

The head coach of the Del Val golf team is Dr. Doug Linde, an alum of Delaware valley and a three-time golf MVP for the Aggies.

Freshman Brock Bender watches the golf ball closely as he follows through on his put.

Lining up the shot is the key to the game. Here sophomore Andy Bobiak takes a close look at the terrain that comes between him and the hole.

Still following through with his swing, Jim Greenberg is watching the golf ball's path as junior Jim Greenberg.

Sometimes it is interesting to see what the golfers are doing while they're not swinging the club or putter. One can definitely get a different perspective of things that way. Relaxing and not getting stressed out is how to stay on top.

Freshman Andy Bobiak shows his sign of disappointment as the ball just misses the hole.

Chipping the ball is not always easy. One can see how junior Todd Hippauf handles the situation as the ball is lofted into the air.

Pumping Up The Crowd

The 1998 cheerleading squad had a great year cheering the football team to victory. They cheered at most of the Aggie's home games. Homecoming was an especially great time because the squad was represented in the parade.

The squad's captains were Melissa McCarthy, Katie Mick, and Chelsa Searles. These three were the only cheerleaders who returned from last year. The team members were Maggie Fallon, Marsha Harris, Sabrina Hartman, Becky Koval, Kirsten Kuhns, Liz Leiter, Tanya Ray, Katie Smith, Paige Stranko, Danielle Vacirca, and Rene Ward.

The squad was led by their new coach, Stacey McDermott, who taught them many new cheers. Thanks to the help of choreographer Shannon McDermott, the squad performed a new dance, to the delight of many fans. With the hope of a cheerleading camp this summer, and the possible lifting of the "no stunts at Del Val law," the squad is looking forward to a new and better season in 1999.

Congratulations & Index

Within the pages of the Congratulations section, families and professors of the graduating senior honor them on their accomplishments. As this book comes to an end, the people that fill this book can be found in the Index.

To our Christine,

You already know how much joy and pride you give to us. You know how blessed we feel, that you are part of us. Your many accomplishments to this day has built a secure stepping stone, for you to walk out onto the road you have chosen to travel.

How fortunate for God's creatures, that you will always be a kind and loving soul among them, who will care and protect with a passion that started when you were a child, and has grown into your life's ambition.

We, being your family, who has supported you all the way, feel it so rewarding to see you filled with such happiness, excitement, and readiness, for the life that is ahead.

May God continue to bless you, with the love for what you do, and may He guide that love, to it's fullest potential, so that everyone and every creature in your life will be able to benefit from your presence on this earth.

Sometimes people come into your life and you know right away that they were meant to be there... to serve some sort of purpose, teach you a lesson or help figure out who you are or who you want to become. You never know who these people may be but when you lock eyes with them, you know that every moment that they will affect your life in some profound way. And sometimes things happen to you at the time that may seem horrible, painful, and unfair, but in reflection you realize that without overcoming those obstacles you would have never realized your potential, strength, will power or heart. Everything happens for a reason. Nothing happens by chance or by means of good luck. Illness, injury, love, lost moments of true greatness and sheer stupidity all occur to test the limits of your soul. Without these small tests, life would be like a smoothly paved, straight, flat road to nowhere. Safe and comfortable but dull and utterly pointless. The people you meet affect your life. The successes and downfalls that you experience can create who you are, and the bad experiences can be learned from. In fact, they are probably the most poignant and important ones. If someone hurts you, betrays you or breaks your heart, forgive them because they have helped you learn about trust and the importance of being cautious to whom you open your heart to. If someone loves you, love them back unconditionally, not only because they love you, but because they are teaching you to love and open your heart and eyes to little things. Make every day count. Appreciate every moment and take from it everything that you possibly can, for you may never be able to experience it again. Talk to people you have never talked to before, and actually listen. Let yourself fall in love, break free and set your sights high. Hold your head up because you have every right to. Tell yourself you are a great individual and believe in yourself, for if you don't believe in yourself, no one else will believe in you. Create your own life and then go out and live it.

ΔEB would like to congratulate all of their graduating seniors.
